Student Learning Objectives (SLO’s)

SLO 1:
Students will attain and demonstrate advanced theoretical knowledge of normal processes related to the development of speech, language, hearing and communication as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Communication Sciences and Disorders curriculum.

SLO 2:
Students will attain and demonstrate advanced theoretical knowledge of disorders of speech, language, hearing and communication as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Communication Sciences and Disorders curriculum.

SLO 3:
Students will conduct, analyze, and interpret clinical assessment utilizing evidence based practice as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Speech and Hearing Science curriculum.

SLO 4:
Students will formulate a plan of care and execute intervention techniques and strategies utilizing evidence based practice as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Communication Sciences and Disorders curriculum.

SLO 5:
Students will develop and refine oral, written, and professional communication skills as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Communication Sciences and Disorders curriculum.

SLO 6:
Students will integrate their knowledge about diversity and the global society into their interactions with clients and their families as demonstrated by key assessments defined in specific course syllabi in the Communication Sciences and Disorders curriculum.