New York Yankees Coach to Discuss Effects of Drugs on Sports Fitness

Dana Cavalea, director of strength and conditioning for the New York Yankees, will discuss the negative effects of alcohol and performance-enhancing drugs on athletic performance on Monday, Nov. 19.

The presentation will begin at 7 p.m. in Old Main Brown Auditorium. Sponsored by the Athletics Department and the Campus Artist and Lecture Series, the lecture is free and open to the public.

"Dana is one of the great young minds in sports when it comes to training and performance," said Michael Discenza, athletics, an event organizer. "His expertise in this field will be valuable for not only our athletes at SUNY Cortland but for young athletes and parents across Central New York."

Cavalea's goal is to provide athletes and coaches with a solid foundation on how the body functions while at the same time creating an awareness about the influence of lifestyle on athletic success. He specializes in developing multi-planar strength, power and speed. He divides his time between Long Island and Tampa, Fla.

"It is my personal goal to enhance the overall development of the modern athlete by education and practicality," Cavalea said. "Helping athletes achieve their dreams is what it's all about. Make your dreams realities."

Cavalea also has served as a strength and conditioning coach for the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Toronto Bluejays. He previously coached at the collegiate level with the University of South Florida and Bryant University.

Cavalea earned a Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science/Sports Medicine from the University of South Florida.

He is certified with the National Strength and Conditioning Association, the National Academy of Sports Medicine and the United States Weightlifting Federation.

Krall Will Present U.S. Land Use Talk

Mary Elyse "Lisi" Krall, economics, whose research has focused on ecological economics, will give a talk titled "Economic Evolution and the Ethos of Land in the U.S." on Wednesday, Nov. 28.

Krall, who has a book by the title of her talk currently under consideration by SUNY Press, will begin her lecture at 4:30 p.m. in Cornish Hall, Room D-304. A reception will precede the talk at 4 p.m. in the Brooks Museum, located in Cornish Hall, Room D-312. The presentation, which continues the 2007-08 Brooks Museum Lecture Series on the theme of "Culture and the Environment," is free and open to the public.

In her lecture, Krall will explore the agrarian ethos in U.S. history, a dominant cultural attitude that evolved along with the market economy.

She studied at the University of Utah, receiving a bachelor's degree in anthropology and a doctorate in economics. Prior to earning her Ph.D., Krall also completed post-graduate studies in biology and economics.

She began her career teaching at the University of Utah. She also served on the

Faculty Senate Endorses Ad Hoc Committee To Create Template for External Review

After several weeks of discussion, the Faculty Senate endorsed by an 11-6 vote at its Nov. 12 meeting in Brockway Hall the creation of an ad hoc committee to formulate the template for external review of faculty on campus.

Senator Howard Botwinick, economics, offered the amended motion that originated with the Faculty Senate Steering Committee in October. During the ensuing meetings, Senate debate centered around a number of issues, including faculty representation on such a committee and whether existing Senate policies dictated that the Faculty Affairs Committee – and not an ad hoc committee – was the proper body for considering the establishment of external review procedures.

The external review issue came to the fore because SUNY System has informed its campuses that external review will be a requirement for family promotion, although each campus has been given the leeway to determine the form it will take.

President Erik J. Bitterbaum explained to the Senate that SUNY New Paltz and SUNY Oneonta have definite external review policies in place, while SUNY Fredonia, SUNY Oswego, SUNY Plattsburgh and SUNY Potsdam are working on what their respective external review policies should look like.

SUNY Cortland took its first step in that process with the approval of Botwinick's motion, which stated:

'Earthly Matters' Series Speaker to Discuss World Struggle for Scarce Resources

Michael T. Klare, a distinguished scholar and author on U.S. defense policy, the arms trade and world security affairs, will discuss "Rising Power, Shrinking Planet: The Global Struggle Over Dwindling Resources" on Thursday, Nov. 29.

Klare, who wrote the 2004 book Blood and Oil: The Dangers and Consequences of America's Growing Dependency on Imported Petroleum (Metropolitan Books), will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Main Brown Auditorium.

The lecture continues the College's yearlong series on the theme of "Earthly Matters," organized by the College's Cultural and Intellectual Climate Committee. The series is free and open to the public. A reception and book signing will follow the talk.

Klare is the Five College Professor of Peace and World Security Studies, a joint appointment at Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, Smith College and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Since 1985, he has directed the Five College Program in Peace and World Security Studies. From 1977-84, he oversaw the Program on Militarism and Disarmament at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

His books also include Resource Wars: The New Landscape of Global Conflict (Metropolitan Books, 2001), Rogue States and Nuclear Outlaws (Hill and Wang, 1995); American Arms Supermarket (University of Texas Press, 1984); Supplying Repression (Field Foundation, 1978; 2nd ed., Institute for Policy Studies, 1981); and War Without End: American Planning for the Next Vietnams (Knopf, 1974).

In addition, Klare was editor or co-editor of Light Weapons and Civil Conflict: Controlling the Tools of Violence (Rowman and Littlefield, 1999); World Security: Challenges for a New Century (1st edition, 1991; 2nd edition, 1994; 3rd edition, 1998); Peace and World Security Studies: A Curriculum Guide (5th edition, 1989; 6th edition, 1994); Lethal Commerce: The Global Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons (American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 1995); and Low-Intensity Warfare (Pantheon, 1988).

Klare has served as the defense correspondent of The Nation and a contributing editor of Current History. He has written articles for Arms Control Today, Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Harper's, International Security, Issues in Science and Technology, Journal of International Affairs, Le Monde Diplomatique, Mother Jones, Scientific American, Technology Review, Third World Quarterly and World Policy Journal.

He has served on the board of directors of the Arms Control Association and the advisory board of the Arms Division of Human Rights Watch. Klare has been a member of the Committee on International Security Studies of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

He received his B.A. and M.A. from Columbia University and his Ph.D. from the Graduate School of the Union Institute.

"Earthly Matters" is the third yearlong series of lectures and cultural events organized around a single theme at SUNY Cortland and is funded by the President's Office and the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Office.

Eighth Annual O'Heron Tournament Set for Nov. 23-24

Park Center Corey Gymnasium will be the site of the eighth annual O'Heron Invitational Tournament on Friday, Nov. 23-Saturday, Nov. 24, featuring the varsity boys and girls basketball teams from six area high schools.

Cortland, Groton, Homer and Marathon High Schools will participate in the boys competition and Cortland, Homer, Newfield and Elmira Southside High Schools in the girls bracket. The SUNY Cortland O'Heron Newman Foundation organizes the event. Trophies will be presented to the respective team champions. All-tournament teams and an MVP will be selected and will receive plaques.

Tournament proceeds will be used to support the Rev. Edward J. O'Heron Scholarship, which is awarded annually to a deserving SUNY Cortland English major, and to support the Newman Hall student organization. Rev. O'Heron was the founder and chaplain of the Newman Center for 38 years until his death in November 1999. He earned his master's degree in English at SUNY Cortland.

Competition opens on Friday at 1 p.m. with the Homer-Newfield girls game, followed by the Cortland-Elmira Southside girls contest at 2:45 p.m. Varsity boys competition starts at 6 p.m. with the Homer-Marathon game, followed by the Cortland-Groton contest at 7:45 p.m.

On Saturday, the girls consolation game is slated for 10 a.m. and the girls championship for 11:45 a.m. The boys consolation game takes place at 2 p.m. followed by the boys championship contest at 3:45 p.m.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1 for students per each day of competition. A two-day pass for $5 also may be purchased. All tickets will be sold at the door. For more information, contact Peter Koryzno, public relations, the O'Heron Invitational Tournament chair, at ext. 2232.

SUNY Cortland Students, Faculty Visit Romania To Present Democratic Ideas in Education

A group of SUNY Cortland students and faculty members traveled to Romania in early November to give an American point of view on where higher education is headed.

Three seniors and four faculty members each spoke on one aspect of this year's conference theme, "The University in the 21st Century."

The annual conference of the Alliance of Universities for Democracy (AUDEM) was held Nov. 4-7 in the city of Cluj-Napoca at Universitatea Babes-Bolyai.

Emily Cittadino, a communication studies major from Marcy, N.Y., spoke about "Feminist Ideologies: Cyber-Gender Politics and the 2008 U.S. Presidential Election."

Chad Daniels, a dual communication studies and social philosophy major from Hamilton Square, N.J., gave a lecture titled, "A New Battlefield: American Youth Political Activism on the Internet."

Dustin Good, a dual communication studies and history major from Hellertown, Pa., discussed "A Tale of Two Movements: A Comparative Analysis of Poland's Solidarity Committee and the Youth Cyber-Political Movement in the United States."

AUDEM is a consortium of institutions of higher learning formed to enhance the role of education in promoting democratic institutions, economic development, decentralized decision making, human health, sustainable habitation of the earth and common moral and social values. At its inception in the 1990s, AUDEM included institutions in Central and Eastern Europe and the U.S. Since then, the organization has expanded its membership to Western Europe and Asia.

Henry Steck, political science, was the program chair for the conference and chaired a number of panels and a town hall meeting of all participants.

In addition to the students' presentations, the following staff members also spoke at the conference. Craig Little, sociology/anthropology, talked about "Corporate Behavior and Public Health in Central and Eastern Europe since 1989: Research Evidence" with Larissa Titarenko, Belarus State University and visiting faculty at Cortland.

Janet Duncan, foundations and social advocacy, who directs the College's Institute for Disability Services, delivered a speech on "Creating a Campus-Wide Institute for Disability Studies."

Caroline Kaltefleiter, communication studies, discussed "Saving/(De)Constructing Private Lynch: Manufactured Media Representations of Women in War Zones."

The 2008 conference will be in Baku, Azerbaijan. For more information, contact Steck at ext. 4807.

Orchestra Concert Set For Nov. 29 in Dowd

The College-Community Orchestra will give its fall concert at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 29, in the Dowd Fine Arts Theatre. The concert is free and open to the public.

The ensemble of campus and off-campus musicians, under the direction of Ubaldo Valli, will perform the Overture to Jacques Offenbach's "Orpheus in the Underworld," music from Aaron Copland's film soundtrack for "Our Town" and Franz Liszt's "Les Preludes."

For more information, contact the Performing Arts Department at ext. 2811.

Nominations Sought for Chancellor's Awards

Nominations are due by Tuesday, Nov. 20, for the following awards: Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Librarianship, Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Professional Service, Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Scholarship and Creative Activities, Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Faculty Service, Distinguished Service Professorships, and Distinguished Professorships.

Nominations should include the nominee's name and a detailed justification not to exceed two typed pages to Virginia Levine in the President's Office by Nov. 20. Nominations also may be submitted by e-mail to virginial@em.cortland.edu. Individuals may not nominate themselves for these awards. Only those nominations with one or two page justifications will be reviewed.

Complete criteria for eligibility may be found in the President's Office, Miller Building, Room 408. These criteria also can be accessed at www.suny.edu/provost/faculty-awards.cfm?navLevel=5. It should be noted that criteria listed are from the previous academic year and have not yet been updated by SUNY System Administration. Nevertheless, criteria tend to remain constant across years.

To be eligible for the Excellence in Librarianship Award, individuals must possess an M.L.S. and must have served as a full-time librarian at SUNY Cortland for at least three years.

Eligibility for the Excellence in Professional Service Award is limited to those non-classified service employees with more than 50 percent of their work assignment in non-teaching services and who have completed at least three years of continuous full-time professional service.

Faculty nominees for the Excellence in Scholarship and Creative Activities Award may hold any academic rank, but they must have completed three years of full-time service on their home campus prior to the year of nomination.

Eligibility for the Distinguished Service Professorship is limited to individuals who have been full professors for at least five years and who have completed at least 10 years of full-time service in SUNY. Distinguished Professor is the highest academic rank awarded by SUNY System and is above that of full professor. It is conferred solely by the State University Board of Trustees. Criteria include proven national or international prominence and a distinguished reputation within the individual's chosen field through significant contributions to the research literature or through artistic performance or achievement in the case of the fine and performing arts.

Faculty holding any Distinguished Faculty Rank may not be nominated for another Distinguished Faculty Rank designation.

Nicholas Koziol to Receive National Professional Development Scholarship

Nicholas J. Koziol, alumni affairs, was awarded a 2008 Professional Development Scholarship from the National Educational Alumni Trust (NEAT).

Koziol, a three-year College employee who joined the Alumni Affairs Office in May, was one of 15 winners nationwide selected by a scholarship committee for this award geared to alumni relations field newcomers.

Announced on Oct. 31, the NEAT scholarships will support the cost for each recipient to attend a professional development conference during 2008.

Koziol, who applied for the scholarship in August, plans to use his award to participate in the 2008 Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) Workshop for Newcomers in Alumni Relations during February in Minneapolis, Minn.

"I hope to learn what is working in other alumni departments and to find out what I can do to make our department function even better with the alumni, students, faculty and staff," Koziol said.

He joined SUNY Cortland in 2004 as a residence hall director and was promoted in 2006 to coordinator of Casey and Smith Towers on campus. In that capacity, Koziol supervised a staff of 18, working to build a positive living environment among the 500 student residents.

A native of Huntington, N.Y., he earned a bachelor's degree in English from SUNY Fredonia and a master's degree in student personnel administration from Buffalo State College.

Amy Renz, president of the Kansas State University alumni association and chair of the board of directors for NEAT, observed, "The scholarship benefits its member alumni associations at colleges and universities nationwide and has provided scholarships for the past eight years."

A not-for-profit organization, NEAT provides insurance and financial services to constituents of its 140 member associations. NEAT insurance plans and programs are administered and marketed by American Insurance Administrators, Inc., a USI Affinity company based in Columbus, Ohio.

Jean Palmer of Utica Joins Public Relations Staff

Jean A. Palmer of Utica, N.Y., joined SUNY Cortland on Nov. 12 in the newly created, full-time position of staff writer in the Public Relations Office.

Palmer, who has served since 2002 as public relations assistant with the Oneida-Herkimer-Madison Board of Cooperative Educational Services (OHM BOCES), reports to Jennifer Wilson, assistant director of public relations. The department, which operates under the Division of Institutional Advancement, previously employed a part-time staff writer, Sherrie Negrea, who served from late 2005 until July.

Palmer is responsible for assisting the public relations staff in promoting the College to the campus community, the public, approximately 50,000 alumni, and potential supporters of the institution's goals.

At the OHM BOCES in New Hartford, N.Y., Palmer coordinated media relations for the organization and its 12 component school districts. She presented news media outlets with potential stories on subjects including student achievement. Palmer wrote, edited and produced two key publications: a quarterly newsletter for staff and a semi-monthly newsletter for students, parents, faculty and community served by the Whitesboro and Sauquoit Valley Central School Districts. She also developed and executed a communications plan to promote the organization's $38.55 million capital project in the community.

Since 2006, Palmer also has served as an editorial advisor to Techniques magazine, a publication of the Association for Career and Technical Education.

Palmer currently chairs the Information Booth Committee for the International Boxing Hall of Fame, an organization in Canastota, N.Y., that she has served since 2001.

As a volunteer on the Communications Committee for the American Heart Association's "Go Red for Women" Campaign, she helped plan and produce publicity for the Spring 2007 luncheon and fashion show. In gratitude, the American Heart Association presented her with a Special Recognition for Media Coordination Award in August. In Spring 2005, she wrote freelance articles for The Family Nurturing Center in Utica to promote its annual Family of the Year celebration.

Palmer graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Public Relations and Journalism from Utica College of Syracuse University. As a student, she was president of the Raymond Simon Chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America, president of the Society for Collegiate Journalists, public relations director of the Utica College Student Senate, and life editor and reporter for the student newspaper Tangerine.

In Spring 2002, the Central New York Public Relations Society of America presented her with its Outstanding Senior Award and the George Jones Outstanding Senior Award.

She served as a public relations intern with the College from 2000-02 and with the non-profit agency for children and families, The House of the Good Shepherd in Utica, N.Y., in Spring 2002. In support of her internships, Palmer was presented with both the 2001 Raymond Simon/RSI Scholarship and the David D'Alessandro Internship Scholarship.

Nominations Sought For Teaching Award

Nominations are being accepted for the 2007-2008 Tenure-track Excellence in Teaching Award. The deadline for nominations is Dec. 1.

The award includes a monetary prize of $1,000. Eligibility is open to tenure-track faculty teaching at the graduate or undergraduate level who carry a tenure-track teaching load as defined by SUNY College at Cortland, and have completed at least four semesters of teaching at SUNY Cortland prior to the year of nomination.

Statements of nomination may be mailed to the Faculty Development Center (FDC), Memorial Library, or submitted via e-mail to fdc@cortland.edu. Nominations can be submitted by faculty colleagues, students or members of the administration.

Candidates for the Excellence in Teaching Award are required to submit supporting materials and undergo classroom observations in the spring semester.

A full description of the requirements is available at the FDC Web site at www.cortland.edu/fdc/awards_grants.asp.

Questions regarding the award may be directed to the FDC office at ext. 2088.

Award Recipients Announced

Sheila Cohen, literacy, and Karen Stearns, English, received $7,500 from the National Endowment for the Arts for their project titled "The Big Read" for the period Jan. 1-June 30, 2008.

Krall Will Discuss U.S. Land Use at Series Talk

faculties at Clarkson University, St. Lawrence University and SUNY Potsdam.

Krall joined the College in 1990 as an assistant professor and became a professor in 2004. She has served the Economics Department as both acting chair and chair. In Fall 2004, she served as a SUNY Senior Scholar in exchange to Russia.

Krall has taught courses in environmental and resource economics. Her research has focused on environmental and resource economics, labor economics, economics of gender, history of economic thought, political economy and ecological economics.

She gives public lectures on economics as it relates to the environment and has written articles on the subject. These include "Peak Oil: A Veblenian Approach," co-authored with fellow SUNY Cortland economist Gerald Surette, emeritus, which was accepted for inclusion in the Proceedings of the Symposium on Peak Oil, Economic Growth and Wildlife Conservation of the 2006 Wildlife Society Conference held in Anchorage, Alaska.

Krall's research on "Between Wilderness and the Middle Landscape: A Rocky Road," was published in the 2007 U.S.D.A. Forest Service Proceedings. She is the author of "Neoclassical Economics and the 'Cult' of Economic Efficiency: Understanding the Ghosts of the Past," published in Proceedings of the George Wright Society National Park Service Conference in March 2005 in Philadelphia, Pa.

She wrote two articles that were published by the Journal of Economics Issues, "Thomas Jefferson's Agrarian Vision and the Changing Nature of Property," in 2002 and "U.S. Land Policy and the Commodification of Arid Land," in 2001.

Krall organized a symposium in September titled "Towards a Steady State Economy: Implications for Sustainability and Wildlife Conservation," for the Wildlife Society's 14th annual meeting.

She is a member of the International Society of Ecological Economics, the Wildlife Society, the Wildlife Society: Working Group on Steady State Economics, and the Fisheries Society.

The lecture series is sponsored by the Auxiliary Services Corporation (ASC). For more information, contact Sharon Steadman, sociology/anthropology, at ext. 2308.

Nominations Sought by Teaching Awards Committee

The Teaching Awards Committee is seeking nominee suggestions for the Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Teaching and for Distinguished Teaching Professor.

Names of potential candidates may be suggested by colleagues or students. Self-nominations cannot be accepted.

Nominees for the Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Teaching must regularly carry a full-time teaching load. Prior to the year of nomination, the candidate must have completed at least three academic years of full-time teaching on the campus making the recommendation.

Nominees for the Distinguished Teaching Professor must have regularly carried a full-time teaching load, both in terms of the number of credit hours taught and the number of students served. A candidate must have held the rank of full professor for five years and must have completed at least three years full-time teaching on the campus that recommends the appointment and 10 years of full-time teaching within the SUNY system. Note also that this award places a greater emphasis on scholarly accomplishment than the Chancellor's Award.

Department chairs are eligible for either award as long as they carry a full-time teaching load as defined for department chairs at SUNY Cortland.

The committee will evaluate candidates for both awards with regard to the criteria set forth in statewide guidelines. These criteria include the specification that the candidates must:

- Perform superbly in the classroom
- Be teachers/scholars who keep abreast of their field and use information from that field in their teaching
- Demonstrate a continual concern for the intellectual growth of individual students
- Set high standards for students and help them achieve academic excellence

Visit www.suny.edu/provost/about.cfm for more specific information.

Names of nominees should be forwarded in writing by Dec. 3 to Committee Chair Bonni C. Hodges, health, Moffett Center, Room 105. Other committee members include Denise Knight, English, Cynthia Benton, childhood/early childhood education, Virginia Levine, president's office (ex officio).

The peer-reviewed presentation was titled “The Effects of a Study Abroad Experience in Sport Management — attitudes and awareness in the global sport industry.”

Arden Zipp, chemistry emeritus, recently presented talks to two AP Chemistry classes at High Point High School in Beltsville, Md.

“Because the temper of the faculty on the SUNY Cortland campus is one that desires and strives for individual and departmental autonomy, the Faculty Senate Steering Committee moves that deliberations of the proposed external review process begin in an ad hoc committee created for and charged with that purpose only, and made up of a broad representation of faculty elected by each of the three schools, each of the subdivisions of the arts and sciences, and the librarians.”

Botwinick went on to cite the most recent full-time, tenure-track faculty numbers supplied to him by Joanne Barry, human resources. The figures show that of 256 faculty members, 60.2 percent are in the School of Arts and Sciences, 21.5 percent are in the School of Professional Studies, 14.1 percent are in the School of Education, and 4.3 percent are librarians.

In order to approximately reflect the above numbers of total faculty members in each division and within the library, the Senate approved Botwinick’s recommendation, included in his motion, that the make-up of the ad hoc committee be: six members from arts and sciences with three of these elected at-large by the arts and sciences faculty and one each elected from each arts and sciences subdivision; two members elected at-large by the professional studies faculty; two members elected at-large by the education faculty; and one member elected at-large by the librarians.

Clarke to Resign as Faculty Affairs Committee Chair

Glen C. Clarke, research and sponsored programs, who has chaired the Faculty Senate’s Faculty Affairs Committee (FAC) for the past three-and-a-half years, informed the Senate that he would be stepping down as chair effective Dec. 12.

While it was an entirely voluntary decision, the move comes in the wake of a growing feeling on campus that a tenured faculty member should head the committee, according to Clarke, who has consistently been among the most well-prepared Senate committee chairs during his tenure.

Clarke, who also serves on the Senate’s Review of Governance Structure Committee, said that group will soon make a recommendation to the Faculty Senate that its by-laws be amended so that only a faculty member with academic rank be eligible to serve as FAC chair.

“Fewer than one in three professionals — and fewer than one in four faculty members overall — believe that I should be chair of the Faculty Affairs Committee,” added Clarke, referring to the results from 242 faculty and 61 professional respondents of a not-yet published campus survey conducted by the Review of Governance Structure Committee.

“Because it appears that my continued service is neither welcomed nor warranted, I will resign as chair of the Faculty Affairs Committee on Dec. 12,” said Clarke, who will do so at the FAC meeting that day.

“I will conduct an election of a new chair to succeed me,” he explained. “Immediately upon that individual’s election as chair, I will give the assembled record of all agendas, minutes, and annual reports of the committee during my tenure as chair to my successor. If for any reason such an election is not held beforehand, I will resign as chair effective at 4 p.m. on that date and will give the assembled record of all agendas and minutes of Faculty Affairs Committee meetings during my tenure as chair to Senate Chair (Karla) Alwes as soon after the meeting as is practicable.”
