Roy H. Olsson Jr. to Begin Aug. 23 as Dean of School of Professional Studies

Roy H. Olsson Jr., the chair of the Department of Public Health and Rehabilitation Services at the University of Toledo, has been named the dean of the School of Professional Studies at SUNY Cortland. He will begin his new duties on Aug. 23.

Olsson was hired following a national search during the spring. He replaces Christopher Malone, who will conclude his term at the end of June.

A native of Junction City, Kan., and a 1970 graduate of St. Xavier High School, Olsson earned both his bachelor's degree in social work and his master's degree in recreational therapy from Kansas State College of Pittsburg. He received a Ph.D. in leisure studies and service with an emphasis on therapeutic recreation from the University of Oregon.

At SUNY Cortland, Olsson will report directly to the provost and vice president for academic affairs and will serve on the Provost's Cabinet. He will oversee five academic departments: physical education, exercise science and sport studies, health, recreation and leisure studies, and speech pathology and audiology.

Since 2001, Olsson has directed four divisions at the University of Toledo in his capacity as chair – public health, speech language pathology, recreation and recreational therapy, and healthcare administration. Responsibilities while serving as chair included: management of the departmental budget, oversight of external educational cooperative programs in recreational therapy and in the Master of Public Health with the Medical College of Ohio and Bowling Green State University, hiring part-time faculty, annual evaluation of all faculty and staff and service on university wide committees. As chair, Olsson served on the Faculty Senate, Graduate Council, Presidential Prioritization Task Force, Salary Equity Committee and Board of Trustee's Negotiations Committee.

Olsson, who holds the rank of professor, has taught one class per semester, supervised clinical and internship students, advised students, served on thesis committees and developed distance learning classes while serving as chair. He received two external grants for more than $225,000.

He began his professional career in 1975 as director of recreational therapy at the Nevada (Mo.) State Hospital. He was director of adjunctive therapies at Mid-Continent Psychiatric Hospital in Olathe, Kan., for a year before serving as

'Distinguished Alumni' Will be Honored During Annual Reunion Weekend on Campus July 17

The Alumni Association will present its highest honor, the Distinguished Alumna/Alumnus Award, to Mary Lynn Collins '57, Douglas Galke '72 and Lucy Gettman '78 during the Alumni Reunion Weekend luncheon in Corey Union on July 17.

Ninety-six SUNY Cortland graduates, including this year's honorees, have received the award since 1968 for distinguishing themselves in their careers and for outstanding service to their community and their alma mater. In addition, 15 have been honored with Distinguished Young Alumni awards and six persons as Honorary Alumni.

Mary Lynn Collins '57

Mary Lynn Collins '57, a teacher educator for more than 40 years, has been honored as a professional by both New York and Florida. In 1998, she received New York's Outstanding Teacher Educator Award. In Florida, the outstanding teacher award is named in her honor and she received it in 2001.

"Now I feel by being chosen for Distinguished Alumna that I am going full circle and returning to my roots," she said.

Born in Syracuse, N.Y., Collins graduated from St. Patrick's High School. She earned a Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education and a Master of Arts in Secondary Social Studies from SUNY Cortland. She taught at elementary and secondary schools in New York before completing a degree in guidance and counseling from Syracuse University.

"While I was a guidance counselor at schools in New York and Maryland, teachers began asking me to come into their classes and observe whether they were causing the student's problems," Collins said. "These experiences led me to complete my Ph.D. in teacher education from Syracuse University. My dissertation on teacher enthusiasm received the National Research Award from the Association of Teacher Educators in 1976."

Her next move was to LeMoyne College in Syracuse, where she served for 23 years, including the last 19, as chair of the Education Department. During her tenure, she wrote and received approval for a number of master's degree programs from the New York State Department of Education. After retiring from LeMoyne, she joined Nova Southeastern University in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., as a professor of education, where she has taught in both the undergraduate and graduate teacher education programs until the present. Since 1998, she has also coordinated professional development schools,

Dowd Gallery Exhibition Will Feature Art by Three Local Painters

Three local artists will be at Dowd Fine Arts Gallery on Thursday, June 10, to celebrate the opening of their exhibition.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the reception will feature the work of Melissa Sarat of Preble, N.Y., and Robert Sherrill and Ralph Turturro, both of Cortland. The event is free and open to the public.

The exhibition will be on display from June 8-July 23. Summer hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Sarat, Sherrill and Turturro have more than their Central New York residency in common. Their work could be described as obsessive, although in very different ways. They paint on a large scale and their images are varying levels of autobiography. The largest painting in the exhibition is Sarat's St. Frances, which measures seven by eight feet.

However, Sarat's bright palette and representational style contrasts with the subdued, often monochromatic, abstraction of Sherrill and Turturro. While Sherrill's abstraction is more hard-edged and controlled than Turturro's, they share an interest in combining paint and written language.

Sarat calls her paintings "a celebratory gumbo for the senses" and writes, "My paintings are highly-colored narrative tapestries utilizing conjured idiosyncratic myths and archetypes to delve deep into the recesses of ancient memory and connect us once again with the mystical, through elaborate stories of life, death, re-birth, agony and epiphany.

"The archetypes depicted warn us of catastrophic environmental disaster. They reveal the rich cornucopia of life on earth, emphasize the vital connectedness of all things, the importance of bio-diversity, water quality, sustainable agriculture and the profound sacredness of all life."

Sarat received her B.F.A. and M.F.A. from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. She has exhibited her work throughout the U.S., England and Scotland. These include exhibitions at the 55 Mercer Gallery in New York, Arnot Art Museum in Elmira, N.Y.; Everson Museum in Syracuse, N.Y.; Memorial Art Gallery in Rochester, N.Y.; The Shore Gallery in Edinburgh, Scotland; and Crew and Alsager College Gallery in Stoke-on-Trent, England.

Meanwhile, Sherrill writes of his work, "Much of my inspiration for this new series of works has come from my many travels throughout the United States and Europe. During these journeys, I use many sketches and maps to document the locations with which I am both familiar and unfamiliar with. Other influences are the many sounds I may encounter in places such as a train station or a hallway in an apartment building."

Sherrill has exhibited his work throughout the U.S., most recently at the Schweinfurth Memorial Art Center in Auburn, N.Y.; Little Stone and State of the Art Galleries in Ithaca, N.Y.; and the Ann Connelly Fine Art in Baton Rouge, La.

Turturro writes of his work, "The work, the process moves in a subjective time frame, responding to moments in a day of observations that are stimulated by my daily experiences – conversations, road signs, lyrics, poems, media – news, radio, print, photos, television, film, billboards, memories, dreams, etc. The images here become departures. Then the discipline of letting it all go – trusting, allowing for the unexpected but welcomed discoveries of an objective consciousness takes place. And inadvertently this new, abstract, narrative forms a language, a visual language beyond me."

Turturro has exhibited his paintings throughout the U.S. Among recent venues are the Allan Stone Gallery in New York and San Francisco; Tapajoz Gallery in New Milford, Conn.; Sonia Bernhardt Gallery in Washington D.C.; and State of the Art Gallery in Ithaca. He received an M.F.A. from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and interned with prominent New York School painter George McNeil.

This program is made possible, in part, by the Mandatory Student Activity Fee. For more information, contact Dowd Fine Arts Gallery Director Barbara Racker ext. 4216 or by e-mail at rackerb@cortland.edu. Tours of the exhibition are free and available upon request.

Five Spring Student-Athletes Earn Academic All-District Honors

SUNY Cortland placed five spring student-athletes on their respective 2004 College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) Academic All-District I College Division teams. Four of the selections were first-team honorees and move on to the national Academic All-America ballots.

Junior baseball pitcher Mike Burnett, Westfield, N.Y., was a first-team selection on the District I baseball team. Sophomore pitcher Stephanie Adamshick, Milton, N.Y., and senior second baseman Sara "Pip" Colombo, Williamsville, N.Y., were on the softball all-district first team. Junior women's lacrosse player Lauren Frisch, Nanuet, N.Y., was named to the women's at-large all-district first team and senior men's ice hockey player Matt Donskov of Westerville, Ohio, was a second team men's at-large all-district selection.

Burnett is an adolescence education: social studies major with a 3.78 GPA. He finished the season with a 7-2 record and a 2.27 earned run average. He allowed 57 hits and 17 walks and struck out 67 in 71 and one-third innings. He was a first team all-region and second-team All-SUNYAC selection.

Adamshick was a second team All-American and the SUNYAC Softball Pitcher of the Year. A physical education major with a 3.40 GPA, she had a 23-4 record with a 1.02 earned run average and eight shutouts. She struck out a school-record 165 batters and allowed only 108 hits in 172 innings.

Colombo, a second team all-region and first team All-SUNYAC honoree, batted .316 this spring with two homers and 34 runs batted in. She is a physical education major with a 3.64 GPA.

Frisch, a special and elementary education major with a 3.99 GPA, registered 11 goals and four assists in 19 games, 13 as a starter. She also had 26 ground balls.

Donskov was an Academic All-American as a sophomore and is an all-district selection for the third straight time this season. A business economics major with a 3.87 GPA, he scored 25 goals and recorded five assists in 25 games this past winter and finished his career with 101 points.

District I in the CoSIDA College Division features Division II, Division III and National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) schools in New York, six New England states and three Canadian provinces.

Summer Bulletin

This Summer Bulletin is a special issue of The Bulletin, published by the Institutional Advancement Office at State University of New York College at Cortland and distributed to faculty, staff and students. It contains official College announcements, news reports and notices of campus events.

The Summer Bulletin may be viewed online at www.cortland.edu/images/Bulletin.pdf.

Friga Elected Faculty Senate Vice Chair; Referendum on Term Limits Fails to Pass

Following a campus referendum, faculty and staff voted no on a term limit proposal and elected Michael Friga, foundations and social advocacy, vice chair to fill the seat vacated by Bernard Jackson, philosophy. Friga will be the Senate chair in 2004-05.

The referendum proposed a change in the by-laws to "No officers of the Faculty Senate may be elected to more than two successive terms in one office; there is no limit on the number of successive terms for faculty senators."

The referendum did not meet the required two-thirds vote to pass. There were 185 valid ballots, and two-thirds of that is 123, with eight invalid ballots. The results were 120 in favor; 54 opposed.

agreements with the Miami-Dade School District. She has given presentations and workshops nationally and has served as a consultant to numerous colleges on their teacher education programs.

"As acting president of the Florida Association of Teacher Educators in 1998 and elected president in 1999 and 2000, Mary Collins revived an almost defunct association and re-established it on a solid footing," wrote Karen Gushta, who directs Kids' Evangelism Explosion of North America, in a letter supporting Collins' selection as a Distinguished Alumna. "Her work on teacher enthusiasm stands as a touchstone for subsequent work on this topic. Not only did it earn her recognition from the Association of Teacher Educators with the receipt of the 1976 Research Award, but it still is referenced as a key work in this area in texts on educational psychology and methods of teaching."

Collins lives in Plantation, Fla., with her husband, Jim Collins, also a teacher educator. A member of the Miami Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, she is a lector at St. Bernard's Catholic Church. The couple have raised six children, Daniel, Catherine, James, Mary Lynn, Robert and Maureen.

Douglas Galke '72

Since 1982, Douglas Galke '72 has directed the North Carolina Division of Public Health Developmental Evaluation Center in Boone, N.C.. He manages the state program in the Appalachian Mountain region of North Carolina that provides interdisciplinary services to infants and young children with developmental disabilities.

Under Galke's direction and leadership, the center, which serves a seven-county region, has grown from 12 staff members to 30. The center's range and quality of services for children with disabilities and their families has increased to more than 1,200 children annually.

One such program, the Parent-to-Parent Board, developed support and networking for parents of children with chronic illness, developmental disabilities, emotional challenges or grief over the death of a child.

"Doug has been an invaluable leader in the provision of early childhood screening and intervention in northwestern North Carolina and indeed throughout the state," wrote Jeannie Caviness, director of Special Education and Federal Programs with Ashe County Schools.

Born in the Bronx, N.Y., Galke attended Hicksville Senior High School. He graduated in 1972 from SUNY Cortland with a Bachelor of Science in Physical Education. A soccer standout on Coach Fred T. "Doc" Holloway's team, Galke was honored among the Outstanding College Athletes of America.

Galke received a Master of Arts in Physical Therapy in 1975 from Stanford University School of Medicine in Palo Alto, Calif. As a graduate student, he was a co-principal investigator on cardio-respiratory effects of arm and leg exercise in normals and individuals with coronary disease. He earned a Master of Public Affairs in Public Administration and Economics from North Carolina State University, Raleigh, N.C., in 1983. Galke's research paper was awarded first prize in the university's Social Science Research and Instructional Computing Laboratory Paper Competition and he was named the graduate student with the highest scholarly achievement.

From 1975-1978, he was a physical therapist with United Cerebral Palsy Association of Niagara Falls in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and later at the Broome Developmental Services in Binghamton, N.Y. He became head physical therapist at Broome. From 1978-82, Galke served as state physical therapy consultant with the Developmental Disabilities Branch of the North Carolina Division of Public Health in Raleigh. In 1982, he accepted his current appointment.

Galke was honored in 2003 with the Charles P. Schuch Award for Excellence in Clinical Administration by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's Division of Physical Therapy. In 1998, he received a Leo M. Croghan Conference Lifetime Achievement Award for Outstanding Contributions to Children With Developmental Disabilities and Their Families.

Galke lives in Blowing Rock, N.C., with his wife, Mary Fogelsonger Galke '73. They have two grown children, Benjamin and Christine.

Lucy Gettman '78

Lucy Gettman '78 of Columbus, Ohio, has served as director of advocacy for the Reading Recovery Council of North America since 2000.

"For more than 20 years, Gettman has worked with policy makers at the state and national level," said Jady Johnson, Reading Recovery Council of North America executive director. "Her areas of emphasis have included improving federal food programs, services to crime victims and the empowerment of women. She now conducts advocacy nationally on behalf of literacy. She helped shape the No Child Left Behind Act, especially the Reading First Program."

Johnson noted that Gettman currently leads implementation of the council's long-term advocacy plan to assure access to individualized reading and writing instruction by a highly qualified teacher for the lowest-achieving first grade children.

Gettman has shared her expertise in advocacy to empower others, through non-credit college courses for non-profit organizations and volunteers. She has provided volunteer leadership to many nonprofit groups, including the YWCA.

Born in Syracuse, Gettman attended Jamesville-Dewitt High School. At SUNY Cortland, she minored in sociology and biology. She has a Master of Arts in Public Policy and a Master of Social Work from Ohio State University.

Gettman served the Ohio House of Representatives from 1982-87 on the Legislative Ways and Means Committee staff. She was a liaison to the Biennial Budget Conference Committee as well as to lobbyists, interest groups and constituents and worked in the bicameral agency to disseminate information on state and federal policy related to women's issues.

Gettman became assistant to the director of Inter-University Council of Ohio in 1987 and served for three years on the President's Council staff.

From 1990-97, she directed public affairs for the Ohio Student Aid Commission, independently managing the federal and state public policy agenda for a state agency with a $20 million budget. Gettman served as a liaison with congressional and executive policy makers and industry and consumer interest groups.

Gettman was assistant director of the Ohio Attorney General's Crime Victims Assistance Office from 1997-2000. She administered $25 million dollars in state and federal funds to government and non-profit agencies and directed special projects including a statewide automated notification system and Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

Gettman is married to Mark Seifarth.

instructor in the Department of Recreation at the University of Wisconsin-Lacrosse.

From 1980-83, Olsson was an assistant professor and director of the Therapeutic Recreation Program at Villa Maria College in Erie, Pa. In 1983-84, he was director of rehabilitation services at Lakeside Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. He then served as computer assessment coordinator and as a graduate teaching fellow at the University of Oregon while pursuing his doctorate. In 1986-87, he was an assistant professor and the director of therapeutic recreation at the University of South Alabama.

In 1988, Olsson joined the University of Toledo Department of Health Promotion and Human Performance faculty as an associate professor and the director of recreational therapy and therapeutic arts. He was promoted to professor in 1992.

Between 1999-2001, Olsson was the coordinator of the University of Toledo's Recreation and Recreational Therapy Division within the Department of Public Health and Rehabilitation Services. He also served as a professor within the division.

Since 1996, Olsson, a certified therapeutic recreation specialist, has logged more than 3,000 hours as a clinical administrative consultant in rehabilitation therapy at Northwest Psychiatric Hospital in Toledo. In that capacity, he was the project leader for the re-design of the rehabilitation program and developed a strategic plan and performance benchmarks to help the hospital meet state and federal accreditation guidelines in recreational therapy.

Olsson's voluminous academic work includes more than 92 articles, 75 scholarly presentations and nine published conference abstracts. He has written or co-authored 10 books, assessment tools and online guides to published articles and has participated in more than 60 state, national and international educational symposiums.

The national president of the American Therapeutic Recreation Association in 1988-89, Olsson also served as president of both the Ohio Recreational Therapy Registration Board and the Ohio Therapeutic Recreation Society. Since 1988, he served as a member of both the Northwest Ohio Senior Olympics Board and the Northwest Ohio Development Center Board and the State Licensure Committee for Private Psychiatric Regulations.

Olsson and his wife, Patricia, have four grown children, Pamela, Pete, Troy and Patrick.
