School of Arts and Sciences

The program requirements pertain to the Undergraduate Catalog and are intended as a guide for academic planning. Students currently on SUNY campuses should consult their academic advisor for additional choices in general education categories when any course is recommended.

- To view all required courses for the program and Cortland's General Education courses, see the most current undergraduate Catalog.
- The International Studies major is a unique interdisciplinary program, which requires a concentration to complete the program. You can choose to focus on a geographic location: Africa; Asia and Pacific Basin; Europe; or Latin America. Or you can choose a disciplinary concentration: Geography; Culture and Global Development; Global Economic Systems; Global Political Systems; Historical Development; International Health.
- Use the transfer equivalency tables to choose equivalents at your transfer college.
- If you plan to transfer before you complete your associate's degree, you can still earn your degree via Reverse Transfer.

About International Studies

Put the world at your doorstep with a degree in international studies. The knowledge you'll gain of other people and cultures will be an asset for work in your globally interdependent world.

Our graduates work in international business and law, with government agencies and non-governmental organizations, with international organizations or in international academic centers.

Career Potential

- International business or law
- International organizations such as U.N., World Bank, IMF
- Non-governmental organizations such as Peace Corps, Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch
- State Department, Department of Commerce, CIA
- International programs offices at universities
- Graduate schools
- Social studies teacher for grades 7-12 in U.S. or international schools

What Will I Learn?

This unique interdisciplinary program grounds international understanding in the context of a strong liberal arts education. You will explore political, economic, and social structures of various countries and regions while examining the pressing challenges of today and gaining insight into the historical events that contributed to them.

Applying to Cortland
