I would recommend to current students that it is never too early to start building your network and educating yourself on the industry you wish to have a career in. Utilize the platforms available to you, most notably LinkedIn, to learn from industry experts and build your connections. Achieving your dream job will most definitely come down to what you do, but sometimes getting your foot in the door can come from who you know.

My time at SUNY Cortland provided me with the groundwork for both my academic and professional career. My biggest piece of advice is to use every resource that you possibly can and get involved in whatever makes your soul the happiest. The organizations, jobs, professors, and classes that you utilize during your time will train you how to be the best student and most well-rounded human being possible.

Remember the good times you had as an undergraduate, but never forget how you grew over those four years. The person you were when you walked in to your first college class is very different than the person that walks across the graduation stage. The mistakes and successes you made at college are equally important, own both. Finally, always stay teachable, the degree was the easy learning. Life is a harder education than any course in a lecture hall can provide.
