

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES PROGRAM

MAJORS

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

CAREER POTENTIAL

Areas of opportunity:

- Diplomacy
- Graduate school
- Government service
- International business
- International health
- Law
- National security
- Non-profit or humanitarian work

→ Students may choose from four geographic concentrations or six disciplinary concentrations.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

SUNY Cortland international studies majors develop the political, economic, intercultural and negotiation skills necessary to succeed in a global field. In addition to taking classes on current topics and crises, students participate in exercises that involve role-playing as international diplomats. Case study competitions sometimes take place abroad or together with graduate students. These challenging yet rewarding experiences prepare students for a future in international affairs.

INVESTIGATE OUTSIDE OF THE CLASSROOM

Groups include Model European Union, Model United Nations and International Awareness Club. Students can earn funds to pursue independent research projects. Study abroad possibilities are endless through the International Programs Office.

CLARK CENTER FOR GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT

As a hub of education, service and scholarship, this SUNY Cortland resource helps connect campus community members with international events and opportunities.

By the numbers

40+

study abroad partnerships maintained by SUNY Cortland's
International Programs Office
→ plus hundreds more available through the SUNY system

LEARN MORE

International Studies Program

Old Main, Room 122

607 753-2250

cortland.edu/international-studies