

NEW COURSE SCHEDULE

NEXT-GENERATION SCHEDULING FEATURES

EASY TO ACCESS

Campus users will be able to access the public course schedule using the existing links on cortland.edu pages, myRedDragon, or directly from the SRRS web page. Campus users will have additional advanced features when logged in via myRedDragon.

QUICK FILTERING

You will have the option to access information more quickly by filtering text directly within drop-down menus.

CONTROL YOUR VIEW

You are able to tailor your view of search results by sorting, resizing columns, adding or removing columns, and choosing how many results to review at a time.

QUICKLY ACCESS COURSE DETAILS

By selecting a course title, you can review all of the important details of a course, without leaving the search page.

ADVANCED SEARCHING

The new course schedule lets you search using virtually any element of a course. New features include searching by instructor, searching by building and advanced time and day filtering. In addition, you can craft complex searches by including multiple choices with each search item.

INFORMATION SHARING

Academic departments can add additional information and links to course listings. This gives departments the ability to post critical information such as material requirements, technical requirements or specialized schedules.

RESPONSIVE AND MOBILE-FRIENDLY

A major benefit to moving to the new Banner 9 web services, is the fact that pages are all "mobile first" and work seamlessly on phones, tablets and computer screens.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Is the schedule public, or is it just for students and faculty?

The course schedule is available to the public. When students, faculty and staff are logged in, they will have access to additional search features.

Will I use this when I register?

Yes. The course schedule is a variant of the schedule that will be used when adding and dropping courses. This means, you will have a seamless registration experience and will not be required to view different versions of the schedule. We anticipate rolling out improved registration features for the Fall 2020 pre-registration window.

Is the schedule real time?

Yes. The schedule is real time and any changes that occur in registration will be immediately reflected on the schedule. In addition the schedule uses term and catalog-appropriate course descriptions and information.

Can I still see "class notes" and special notices?

Yes. You can view class notes for courses - without leaving the page - by clicking the course title within search results. Select "Requirements and Notes". Class notes have also been expanded to include additional information such as required materials and web links.

Will I still be able to access textbook information?

Yes. The schedule of classes still includes a link to the College's textbook lookup tool. Simply click on the "Textbook Information" link in the course details.

Will this work on my phone or tablet?

Yes. A major reason for moving to new services is that they are designed to work with a broad array of screens and devices. The new schedule is mobile-friendly and responsive.

Can I use the former schedule still?

The former schedule will remain online through Spring 2020 to give users an opportunity to transition, and to give the campus an opportunity to update web pages, documents, instructions and guidance. It will be retired in early June 2020.

When searching for departments or subjects, the full title is shown. Do I search by title or code?

Either will work. The schedule searches for codes (prefixes) and the formal name when filtering. You can search using any combination, and you can select multiple departments and subjects when searching.

Can I search by keyword?

Yes. The schedule lets you search for keywords using an exact phrase, all of the text entered, or just a portion of text. The keyword options search within the course description, title, subject and associated notes and information.
